

Hassan Ould Moctar is affiliated to the Development Studies Department at SOAS, University of London, where he recently completed his PhD on the effects of EU border externalisation policies in Mauritania. His research interests more broadly concern migration, borders and development, with a geographic focus on the West African Sahel region.